Gen. Chennault Resigns From Air Force Post

'FLYING TIGERS' LEADER STATES HE WILL RETIRE

Famed Jap-Fighter Gives No Reason For Quitting As Commander

KNOWS NIP FLIERS WELL

Organizer Of Chinese Air Force Led AVG To Fame Against Japan

CHUNGKING, July 14 — Lt. Gen. Claire L. Chennault resigned as commander of the U. S. 14th air force today and his resignation was accepted by Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, commander of all American forces in China.

Chennault announced his decision to retire from the army but did not specify any reasons for so doing.

The reason for Chennault's resignation was officially described by the 14th air force as "retirement."

Fifty-five year-old Texas-born Chennault has had a stormy career ever since he first formed the world famous "Flying Tigers" in the summer of 1941.

Chennault probably knows as much as any other man in the world about the capabilities of the Japanese pilot, or the Japanese plane. Time and again, he has amazed those around him by his ability to turn his field glasses on an approaching Japanese squadron and accurately call off every move that they would make.

He came out of retirement from Waterbury, La., where he was living in a simple cottage with his wife and eight children in July, 1937, to help the Chinese form a new air force.

He found the Chinese had less than a 100 front-line planes and these were quickly wiped out by the Japanese. He taught the Chinese to fly in the air with the one thought: "What chance have I of winning?"

After three years of training the Chinese, Chennault said with only a small force ready to operate the strategy he had developed, he would be able to flank and destroy any Japanese attempt to invade the South Pacific.

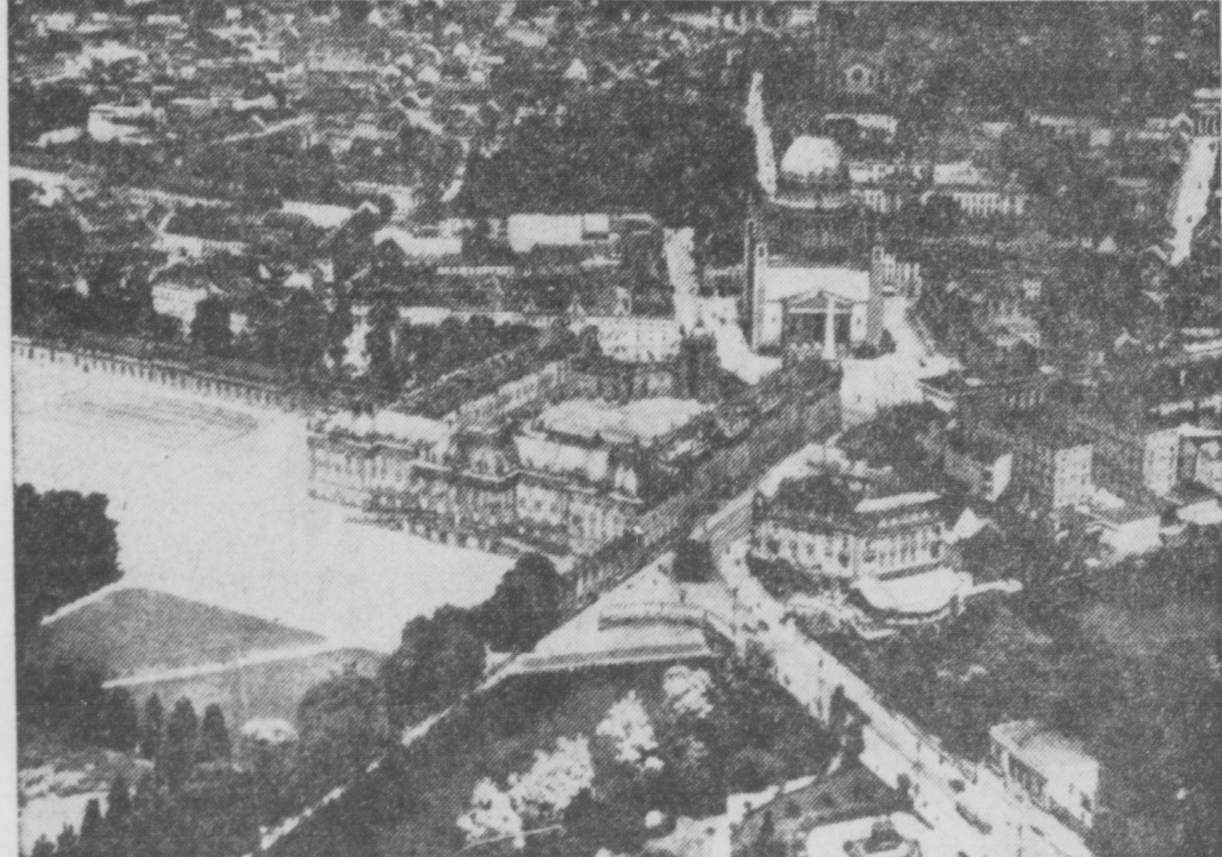

He returned to the United States in 1940 to get that force. He got 100 P-40's, originally scheduled for Sweden, but he didn't get any spare parts. Finally, in the summer of 1941, he got American fliers and American mechanics to come out to China—partially lured by the $600 a month salary with a $500 bounty on downed Japanese planes—and formed the American Volunteer Group.

And the AVG became the hottest group of pilots in the world. Chennault became so sure of them that in May, 1942, he said that (Continued on Page Two)

CRADLE OF PRUSSIAN MILITARISM SCENE OF MEETING

View of Potsdam.

POTSDAM, cradle of Prussian militarism, is the scene of the "Big Three" meeting, July 19. Potsdam, one-time home of the German kaisers, is 16 miles southwest of Berlin, the battered German capital. Originally a Slavonic fishing village, Potsdam remained unimportant until Frederick William I enlarged the town, laying out the streets in monotonous regularity, reflecting his stern military character. Building of chief historical interest is the Palace, which was begun in 17th century. (International)

Slightly More Meat And Butter Promised Civilians In Near Future

WASHINGTON, July 14—A little more meat, a little more butter and a few extra red points to buy them with in the very near future were virtually assured the American people today.

Two actions by the new secretary of agriculture Clinton P. Anderson are responsible for the probability of more meat. Yesterday he:

1. Announced a new cut in the amount of beef and lamb packers are required to set aside for the armed forces. The set-aside for beef was cut from 30 to 25 per cent. for lamb from 15 to 10 per cent. Anderson said civilians could expect "slightly more" beef and lamb as a result.

2. Formally authorized non-federally inspected slaughterers to kill animals for shipment across state lines. This order, effective July 16, is expected to provide fairer distribution of what meat is available for civilians, relieving some of the most acute shortages.

Together the new moves are expected to give civilians the full amount of meat provided in allocation. (Continued on Page Two)

BRITISH PLAN FOR INDIA RULE MEETS REVERSES

LONDON, July 14—The British plan to grant partial self-rule for India collapsed today with an official announcement that the Simla conference had been terminated because of the failure of Indian political leaders to reach an agreement.

The India office said Hindu and Moslem leaders, who had been conferring at Simla with Lord Wavell, had been unable to agree on their respective representation on the proposed governing council of India.

Wavell issued a statement taking personal responsibility for the failure of the conference. He made plain, however, that the principal stumbling block was the attitude of the Moslem league.

CONGRESS ENDS MONEY BATTLES, FUNDS APPROVED

WASHINGTON, July 14—Congress today was clear of all its appropriation legislation for the fiscal year. Both houses are expected to recess by early August.

The final money bill, an appropriation of $769,000,000 for 17 war agencies, was sent to the White House yesterday after both houses agreed to give $250,000 to the fair employment practice committee and $35,000,000 to the office of war information.

This was less than those agencies wanted but constituted an administrative victory although Republicans took some of the credit for restoring the once-erased FEPC funds.

Foes of the administration launched FEPC, mostly southern Democrats, had sought to kill the agency entirely and nearly succeeded. They finally managed to cut its appropriation from a budget recommendation of $599,000 to the final $250,000.

MME. ALLA NAZIMOVA TO BE BURIED ON TUESDAY

HOLLYWOOD, July 14—Mme. Alla Nazimova, whose death has ended a 40-year career as a stage and screen great on three continents, will be buried at Forest Lawn Memorial park, probably Tuesday.

JAPAN WORRIES ABOUT RUSSIANS

Nip Press Guesses U. S., British To Try To Talk Reds Into Fighting

SAN FRANCISCO, July 14—The Japanese press today speculated uneasily upon the future role of Russia in East Asia and predicted most of the "time and effort" of the forth-coming big three conference would be to decide upon Russia's course in Asiatic affairs.

The Tokyo Yomiuri Hochi, in an editorial which was broadcast by radio Tokyo in a Japanese-language program beamed for the United States and picked up by the FCC, said:

"The powers cannot be balanced among the three nations of the United States, Britain, and the Soviet Union alone and in Europe alone. In regard to this problem, (Continued on Page Two)

Ration-Weary Housewives Offered Unique Recipes

PORTLAND, Ore., July 14—Lt. Charles R. Stafford, of Portland, a prisoner of the Nazis for 18 months, offered his culinary abilities to ration-weary housewives across the nation today.

While in a German prisoner of war camp in western Germany, the A. A. F. pilot picked up some revolutionary ideas of cooking.

One of Stafford's favorite recipes, cooked up through the invaluable aid of Red Cross packages, was a sort of fruit cake "a la Stalagluft," which he says, "is enough to last six hungry Yanks until they get tired of it."

"You grind up 12 boxes of service biscuits—they are the K ration wafers of whole wheat, soy beans and vitamins—and you add a pound of dissolved powdered milk. You stir this up into a thick paste. Then you add a pound and a half to two pounds of German beet sugar, three pounds of raisins, a pound of stewed prunes. Then you grind up a dozen bicarbonate of soda pills, tricked from the Germans, and dump them in the batter to raise the dough a little."

"After you bake the cake you melt some chocolate bars taken from D ration packages—and you have a chocolate frosting," Stafford said.

UNITED NATIONS CHARTER NEARER U. S. APPROVAL

Senate Committee Gives Unanimous Approval To Latest Peace Plan

SENATE DEBATE IS NEXT

Chairman Connally Believes Talks Will Last 10 Days Before Vote

WASHINGTON, July 14 — The United Nations charter had a running start today toward senate ratification.

The treaty to join the nations of the world in a new organization to prevent future wars headed toward the senate with the overwhelming approval of the senate foreign relations committee.

Senate debate is scheduled to start July 23. Committee Chairman Tom Connally, D., Tex., doubts that it will run more than 10 days. He is confident of almost unanimous ratification without reservations.

The committee voted its approval late yesterday at the end of five days of public hearings. The vote was 20 to 0.

It was indicative of the overwhelming senate sentiment that the United States should not forego this new opportunity for international cooperation for peace as it did in the case of the League of Nations 25 years ago.

Sen. Hiram W. Johnson, R., Calif., the only remnant of that group still on the committee, did not vote on the new charter.

He and two other absentees—Sens. James E. Murray, D., Mont., and Henrik Shipstead, R., Minn.—have the privilege of getting on record, however, any time until the treaty is formally reported to the senate next Monday.

The public hearings ended with a stirring plea for senate acceptance of the treaty without reservations or dissension.

The closing witness was John Foster Dulles, chief adviser to the American delegation to the San Francisco meeting of 50 United Nations where the charter was drafted.

As one who had a major part in formation of the agreement Dulles was able to answer searching questions as to the rights and responsibilities of the United States as a member of the new organization.

Under intensive questioning by Sen. Eugene D. Millikin, R., Colo., he laid the answers unequivocally on the line.

He assured Millikin that: 1. The United States could withdraw from the organization at any time for "good reason" of which (Continued on Page Two)

IN A DRIVE to cut vital Jap communications lines, Chinese spearheads are making rapid progress toward isolation of the Canton-Hongkong fortress. Three major operations are under way, as shown on the map. Chinese forces are but 35 miles from the big rail center of Kweilin; another force operates on the borders of two provinces and moves toward the important Canton-Hengyang rail line, while a third column is chasing enemy toward Swatow. ### Buildings, Equipment, Livestock Destroyed By Fire On Harry Kern Farm

A barn, four other outbuildings, valuable farm equipment and livestock were destroyed by a $10,000 fire on the Harry Kern farm in Jackson township Friday afternoon.

Circleville firemen were called at 2:05 p. m. after a streak of flame from a threshing machine had started the fire by igniting a straw stack in the farm barn yard. Members of the family reported the buildings were destroyed in about 20 minutes. Firemen prevented the flames from spreading to the house and other buildings.

Gasoline stored in some of the buildings helped make the fire spread fast and made the fire-fighting more hazardous.

Destroyed were the barn containing equipment, hay and livestock, a corn crib, brooder house, chicken house and work shop. High test gasoline was stored in the work shop and small amounts in the other buildings.

About 200 chickens, three sows and 18 pigs and some other hogs were killed by the flames. The livestock was removed from the barn and chicken houses but returned despite efforts to keep them away from the flames.

Equipment lost included two cultivators, grain drill, manure spreader and other smaller irreplaceable items. Also destroyed were several rolls of fence.

Insurance was carried on the buildings and equipment but it is inadequate because of present high prices and the fact much of it can not be replaced.

Two other calls were answered by firemen Friday afternoon. At 3:40 p. m. they were called to the residence of Roy Rittinger, West High street, where a short circuit developed in a refrigerator.

At 4:30 p. m. firemen answered a call to South Court street where a grass fire along the Pennsylvania railroad was burning.

FRIDAY 13TH IS UNLUCKY FOR MRS. LOCKARD

Mrs. Sherman Lockard, East Main street, probably will remain at home when the next Friday the 13th rolls around.

Friday Mrs. Lockard was calling on a friend in the south end of the city and when leaving slipped and fell down three steps to a cement walk, skinning and bruising her knee badly.

Enroute home she stopped at a market to do some shopping and slipped as she stepped in turning her ankle. As she left the store she again turned her ankle and was forced to get assistance to continue to her home.

An examination by a physician disclosed that in the mishaps she had received torn ligaments, a dislocation and a bruised and skinned knee.

HAMAISHI SET AFIRE BY FIRST BIG NAVY BLOW

At Least 9 Warships Pound City For Two Hours From Five Miles Out

NIPS OFFER NO DEFENSE

Huge Steel Mill Demolished; Coke Ovens Set Afire By Cannonading

By United Press

American battleships, attacking under cover of a 1,000-plane carrier strike on Japan's northern islands, set the Honshu steel port of Hamaishi aflame from end to end under a merciless two-hour bombardment today in history's first big naval blow at the Japanese homeland.

Led by three or more of the most modern and hardest-hitting dreadnaughts in the Pacific fleet, a flotilla of at least nine American warships steamed within five miles of the Japanese shores at noon today (Tokyo time) to unlimber their giant guns on Kamaishi, 275 miles north of Tokyo.

Unchallenged by the elusive Japanese fleet and air force, the surface raiders sent salvo after salvo of five, eight and 16-inch shells crashing down into the city's sprawling steel mills and dock yards.

When they wheeled back to sea 120 minutes later, the entire city was blanketed in smoke and flames. The huge Kamaishi steel mill was completely demolished and the adjoining coke ovens were burning furiously from the cannonading.

The battle-hungry Yank fleet apparently broke radio silence to flash word of the successful bombardment back to Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz' headquarters on Guam, in a blunt challenge to the Japanese to come out and fight.

And first reports from the scene indicated the enemy had discreetly ignored the challenge.

It was the Navy's greatest and most spectacular strike at Japan since the war began and it shattered forever the myth of impregnability the Japanese had woven about their home islands since the "Kamikaze" wrecked the Mongols' invading armada 700 years ago.

Meanwhile, there were signs that the fleet's massive carrier blow against northern Honshu and southern Hokkaido, almost 200 miles north of Kamaishi, might still be going on this afternoon, 12 hours after the attack opened at dawn.

First official reports identified only the big Hokkaido port of Hakodate among the American air targets. The city was left blazing furiously after the first attack wave struck.

But Tokyo said the American Navy fliers ranged as much as 200 miles north and northeast of Hakodate to pound the railway and coastal cities of Muroan, Obihiro and Kushiro.

The Japanese said Admiral William F. Halsey's attacking third fleet was accompanied by oil tankers, suggesting it might continue the coastal assault for "two or three weeks."

Tokyo also said a small number of B-29 superfortresses participated in the carrier strike, although the extreme north portion of Honshu previously had been considered beyond their effective range.

TWO CIRCULATE PETITIONS FOR SCHOOL BOARD

Mrs. Lillian Moore and Carl Leist are circulating petitions for reelection to the Circleville city school board.

This will be the first time that Mr. Leist has asked for election, having completed the unexpired term of Herman Hill who resigned when he left the city.

Mrs. Moore is asking for election to her fourth term.

PREMIER PARRI ASKS ALLIES TO HELP ITALIANS

ROME, July 14—The question of Italy's immediate role in postwar Europe was thrown into the laps of the big three today, following an unofficial plea by Premier Ferruccio Parri that the allies give Italy a "legal position which would allow her to begin seriously her work of revival and reconstruction."

Parri told a press conference yesterday that Italian reconstruction is impossible so long as the armistice terms are in force, and urged informally that the Allies speed up the signing of a peace treaty with Italy.

"The Italian people exist in misery," he said, "but when justice has been accorded to us in this misery I believe that the Italian people will astonish the world by the rapidity of their re-

FIRST MEETING OF BIG THREE MAY BE SUNDAY

LONDON, July 14—The cruiser Augusta, bearing President Truman to his first big three conference, steamed through British waters enroute to Antwerp today and was expected to land the President some time tonight or early Sunday.

His first meeting with Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin probably will be held in the heavily-guarded conference area in Potsdam Sunday night, with the detailed discussions opening Monday.

Churchill was still at his Hendaye vacation spot in southern France today, but he is expected to fly to Potsdam before tomorrow evening.

A London News Chronicle dispatch from Potsdam said Stalin will be host to the conferees there as he was at Yalta, since the city is in the Russian occupation zone.
Meanwhile, London civic authorities went ahead with preparations for a big reception for Truman on his way home from Potsdam.

Tentative plans called for the President to reach London on July 25, for a three-day stay at Buckingham palace as guest of the king and queen.

LAUSCHE URGES RUBBER WORKERS RETURN TO JOBS

COLUMBUS, July 14—Gov.
Frank J. Lausche today checked to striking Firestone Tire & Rubber workers the responsibility for getting production rolling again or facing the consequences of being responsible for "death and losses. . . to Americans."

"I request you to return honorably and proudly to your jobs, as free Americans," he said in a radio address last night to the striking on the eve of today's balloting.

"For the peace of your own con-sciences, for the sake of the honor of American labor, for the protection of the American people and, above all, for the sake of our fighting sons, you cannot afford to continue this work stoppage," he said.

"How can we justify stopping the performance of our work in the very middle of the battle?
How can you justify your act in deliberately and intentionally failing to pass up the equipment and the ammunition?"

"In all humility I say to you there is no justification! There is no one—labor leader, public official or otherwise—with tongue so fluent, a mind so keen, as to be able honestly to establish before God or the conscience of his fellow men that your work stoppage is justified."

The war is not over for America, he told them, although "it is over for Russia."

which her estranged husband,

YANK DOUGHBOYS USE BRAINS TO BEAT JAPANESE

NORTHERN LUZON, July 14—
Maj. Gen. William H. Gill, commanding the 32nd "Red Arrow" division, said today that the American doughboy is better than his Japanese opponent because he picks a brain behind that bayonet.
For instance, not so long ago
"Red Arrow" doughs were busy blasting Japs from caves along the Villa Verde trail. The Americans would toss hand grenades into the caves, but the Japs hurled them right back.

So the G. I.'s put their heads together. They solved the problem by throwing two small rocks along with the grenade. In the semi-darkness the Japs couldn't decide which of the three objects to toss back.

Before they could make up their minds, the grenade had exploded.
Gen. Gill is also proud of the bulldozer operator who plowed through the heaviest enemy fire, maneuvering his big blades to serve as shields. One bulldozer, using this technique, charged an enemy machine gun nest and killed all its occupants.

The 32nd, currently mopping up a large portion of North Luzon, still kills an average of 35 Japanese daily. The division has a total of 594 combat days (as of today) which it claims is an American record.

NAZI PRISONERS ARE HANGED FOR KILLING GERMAN

FORT LEAVENWORTH, Kan., July 14—Two Nazi prisoners of war paid with their lives on the gallows of the United States disciplinary barracks here today for the murder of a fellow countryman whom they accused of dividing the food "unfairly" between Americans and German prisoners at Aiken, S. C.

Supported by two chaplains and flanked by eight soldiers, the condemned men, Sgt. Erich Gauss, 32, and Pvt. Rudolf Straub, 39, walked about 200 yards from their cells to the same warehouse gallows where five other Nazis died Tuesday in the Army's first execution of enemy prisoners in this country.

The two Germans were convicted of slaying Host Guenther, a fellow prisoner at Aiken, on April 5, 1944. Guenther, a kitchen orderly, was lured to a tent where Gauss and several other prisoners were waiting for him.

Gauss accused him of being a "traitor to his oath, flag and fatherland" and charged he had divided milk unfairly between Americans and German prisoners, had reported other prisoners to American officers for taking too much food, and had revealed a threatened strike.

he could wipe out the Japanese air force with 2,000 planes.

In April, 1942, Chennault was called back into service with the American airforce and the "Flying Tigers" became a part of history.
He was too valuable a man to be confining his efforts to three squadrons.

Then, too, the American army disliked the idea of one group of pilots being paid so much more money than the other combat fliers.

On April 22, 1942, he was made a brigadier general.

At the time, Chennault made no secret of his regret over being absorbed into the U. S. airforce, especially after only six of his pilots followed him and most of the ground crews dispersed.

At the time he said, "it was the greatest opportunity an airforce commander ever had to get together and train under complete freedom of action a group of fighting men."

Deaths and Funerals

SAMUEL LAWRENCE WARNER
Samuel L. Warner, 63, was found dead in bed this morning
11 a. m. at his home, 498 East Main street, Mrs. Warner, who survives him, had gone to Chicago to visit her son.

Mr. Warner was the manager of the Pickaway Grain company and member of the Knights of Pythias and an active member of St. Paul's Evangelical church.

Surviving him are his wife, one daughter, Mrs. Orley Storts, Canal Winchester, and two sons, Melvin, at home and Oakley, who is in the army, stationed at Fort Sill, Oklahoma.

The Defenbaugh funeral home will have charge of the arrangements, which will be announced later.

CHARLES KRAMER
Mrs. George Gerhardt, Watt street, has been notified of the death of her brother Charles Kramer, at his home in Sentinel
Butte, North Dakota, Thursday.

Mr. Kramer, a Pickaway county native, moved from this county to the Northwest about 45 years ago.
He was a Walnut township farmer and married Minnie Sweyer, also of this community who passed away several years ago.

HARRY THIMMES

Funeral services for Harry Edward Thimmes, 61, who died at his home near Lancaster Wednesday were held at 10:30 a. m. Saturday in St. Mary's Catholic church.

Mr. Thimmes, for 20 years a stationary engineer at the Jeffrey Manufacturing company, Columbus, was a charter member of council 1016 Lancaster Knights of Columbus.

He is survived by his widow,
Mrs. Clara Shaeffer Thimmes two daughters, Miss Martha Belle Thimmes, Lancaster and Miss Mar-rian Thimmes of the home; five sons, Ralph, James and Richard of Lancaster and Lt. Leonard Thimmes and S/Sgt. Neal Thimmes, with the Army in Germany; his mother, Mrs. Charles Thimmes, 220 King street, Lancaster.

He is a nephew of Miss Agnes Butch of Circleville who with Mrs.
W. Joe Burns attended the funeral.

incomplete.

RAINBOW IN MOONLIGHT EMBLEM, Wyo.—The song "I'm Beginning to See the Light" took on a new meaning for Adam Preis, young Emblem farmer, recently.
Preis saw a rainbow at night—
10:30 p. m. to be exact. The observer was attending a War Bond rally when he glanced out of a window just after a shower and saw the rainbow. Other persons at the rally verified the story and explained that there was an abundance of bright moonlight at the time the rainbow was seen.

SIGNING HIS FIRST CROP REPORT

SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE Clinton P. Anderson is pictured in Washington as he put his name to the Department's general crop report—its first since he recently became head of the organization. The report foresees for 1945 a U. S. crop yield well above the average. (International)

Slightly More Meat And Butter Promised Civilians In Near Future

tions for July, August and September—enough to allow them to eat meat at an annual rate of 115 pounds per person. Heretofore civilians have not been receiving their full allotment.

As to butter the prospect appeared last night that it's ration cost might be cut from 24 to 16 points a pound in August because of surpluses in some areas and a drop in civilian purchases due to lack of red points.

Eugene W. Brockebrough, chief of the Office of Price Administration fats and oils branch, told the United Press that OPA was studying a recommendation for an eight-point cut in butter ration values.

"We are reviewing the situation and after we receive recommendations of the industry appropriate action will be taken," he said.
He refused to elaborate but other government quarters have reported a cut in prospect though they said it might be only four points.

Anderson is known to feel that the ration value of butter should be cut. His department, in an official report earlier this week, noted existence of a surplus accompanied by a drop in retail sales as a result of "hot weather and lack of red points."

Any reduction of butter points would mean that many more points to be spent on meat, butter and other fats and oils purchases.

JAPAN WORRIES ABOUT RUSSIANS

Asia cannot be absolutely ignored.
The interest held by the Soviet Union toward East Asia is very energetic. Aside from the problems of ideology and territory, the Soviet Union's attitude is as before a dark cloud and a puzzle.

"It can be assumed, therefore, that the greater portion of the time and effort will be spent in puzzling out this great dark cloud of the Soviet Union and it is the solving of this problem that will determine whether the United States and Britain will have been successful in the conference."

Domei news agency in another broadcast quoting what it said was a Stockholm dispatch, said that the visit of China's premier Dr. T. V. Soong to Moscow was "closely related" with the recent visit to the Kremlin of Harry Hopkins, former special envoy of President Truman.

Yomiuri Hochi alleged, according to Domei, that the United States and Britain were "pushing for a settlement of the Manchurian fortifications issue with the intention by so doing of nailing the Soviet Union's accumulated total strength on the border of Japan and thereby alleviating Soviet pressure against Europe."

The Domei dispatch said Yomiuri Hochi also quoted a London dispatch saying that "prospects are bright" at the big three meeting for Russia "to abandon her their defenses and withdrew to the west.

The Aussies captured the small undefended coastal town of Bang-sal in their advance to the northeast.

Netherlands East Indies forces have cleaned up Karinango peninsula and, together with the Aussies, have driven a salient up the Balikpapan - Soengaiwain water pipeline, about nine and a half miles north of Balikpapan. These troops are pushing eastward against strong Japanese defenses around Mount Batochamper.

The Australian wedge east of the Batochamper defenses has been deepened slightly and Japanese defenses there are in danger of being out-flanked.

Australian units of the ninth division pushed another two miles up the Beaufort-Jesselton railroad and now are about 28 miles south of Jesselton. There has been no resistance.

The troops which landed near Andus have now joined up with the force driving up the railway.
Other units of the ninth were meeting stiff resistance from a Japanese stronghold four miles southeast of Beaufort.

MacArthur's communique announces that heavy bombers had attacked Shinhiku airdrome on Formosa destroying one plane on the ground and causing large fires.
Heavy and patrol bombers continued neutralization of enemy airfields in the southern Celebes, destroying a schooner in the Bone gulf and harassing Malang airdrome in eastern Java.

Japanese Domei agency said today that units of the Japanese air force had carried out a "surprise night raid on enemy warcraft" outside Balikpapan harbor and claimed at least one enemy destroyer had been sunk.

From London the Daily Mail quoted a Tokyo news flash as saying British troops had landed on Panamata island, south of Sumatra. (Panamata is unidentifiable on any available maps and it may be that the broadcaster said Panahitam island.)

SHAEF BECOMES HISTORY; ALLIED LEADERS LEAVE

FRANKFURT, July 14 — SHAEF, the greatest military coalition in history, went out of existence at midnight last night exactly 17 months after it was organized to defeat the Wehrmacht.

British and French staffs have now departed from the great I. G.
Farbenindustrie buildings at Frankfurt and Gen. Dwight D.
Eisenhower had automatically ceased to be supreme commander and is now simply chief of the American occupation forces in Germany.

Only a liquidation commission, representing America, Britain, and France, remained to handle numerous complex problems involving all three nations.

Gen. Eisenhower awarded the legion of merit and bronze star decorations to 140 British officers and 11 enlisted men. Deputy Supreme Commander Air Chief Marshal Sir Arthur Tedder reciprocated with British awards for 106
American officers.

Eisenhower in his final order of the day commended his troops
"for the manner in which you have responded to every demand that has been made."

Court and Corwin streets, police reported.

'Back To Bataan' At Grand

"BACK To Bataan," starring John Wayne, Anthony Quinn, Beulah Bondi and Philip Ahn plays at the Grand theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. This picture depicts the life of a handful of heroes who thwarted the Japs at every turn.

BING Crosby and Joan Blondell are together on the screen of the Cliffonia theatre Sunday and Monday in one of Bing's most delightful pictures, "East Side Of Heaven." The film, brought back by popular request, features Bing singing, among other numbers, "That Sly Old Gentleman" and "Hang Your Heart on a Hickory Limb."
"Imitation Of Life," starring C. Colbert and W. Williams completes the double feature program.

BEFORE AND AFTER HITLER'S BRIEF MILLENIUM

HERE IN TWO PICTURES is the story of Hitler's "thousand years"—the thousand he promised his followers and the scant dozen he delivered. Both pictures show a balcony, the same balcony. In the one at the left the balcony has Hitler on it, ranting of his thousand years of Reich rule by Nazi supermen, and under it is a delirious, heeling, saluting crowd of believers. ### JUSTICE ROBERTS

JUSTICE OWEN J. ROBERTS, in retiring from the Supreme Court at the age of 70, returns to an early tradition of the office. Justices 70 years old are entitled to a pension, and in the past most of them have taken it. During the last 15 years the opposite tendency has prevailed.

There have been brilliant judges on the bench after 70, but there have also been some who should have retired before they did. A half century ago his colleagues had practically to force off the bench a judge who had passed 80. One who, singularly enough, had years previously waited on a colleague with the same errand. And not many years ago a federal circuit court judge of advanced years was found to be so blind and deaf that he followed a colleague's decisions without change.

Justice Roberts is still in the prime of intellectual vigor. So were Justices Louis D. Brandeis and Oliver Wendell Holmes, who resigned at 80 and 91 respectively. Yet it might be argued that Brandeis and Holmes set an undesirable precedent by staying so long. From this viewpoint Justice Roberts' example is to be commended.

THE NEW CAR PROSPECT

DO not be misled by the War Production Board prediction that automobile rationing probably can end next January. It doesn't mean plenty of new cars on the market then. Not by a long shot.

The industry has permission to build about 245,000 cars in what's left of 1945, if it can get materials and labor. If that many are built they will be rationed to essential drivers—police forces, doctors, nurses, etc. Then, perhaps, rationing will be lifted and, so far as the government is concerned, everybody will be free to shop for new cars. That's all the prediction means.

And shopping is as far as most of the people who want new cars are likely to get for a long time.

The WPB has authorized production of about 450,000 autos in the first three months of 1946, and hopes to boost that figure as materials loosen up. The second and later quarters of 1946 should see further increases, but production at a rate, say, of a million cars every three months—which isn't much higher than in such depression years as 1936 and 1937—can hardly be reached until late next year. And not then if the Japs are still fighting.

Even a million and a half new cars every three months, or six million a year, probably wouldn't meet the demand for quite a while. Because no passenger autos have been built for three and a half years, while many millions of old ones have worn out and ceased to run.

So, just because rationing may be lifted in January, don't count too much on buying a new car soon thereafter. And meanwhile take good care of your present car, if you have one.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, July 14—Senator Taft has been playing Horatius at the senate bridge, holding back the Bretton Woods world financial peace agreements, but soon he will have to swim for it.

Many objective men with thorough knowledge of the complex subject think he is right, but know he cannot stand against the avalanche of propaganda organized shrewdly by the treasury to thrust its program through.

The bankers, for instance, marched out openly demanding rather mild guarantees to safeguard the $18,000,000,000 bank and exchange funds from abuses, and ran into a hurricane from the treasury wind machines, which blew their hats and nearly their businesses into the gutter.

Attacks upon "bankers" swept from a thousand mimeograph machines, and the impression was created that the only citizens who doubted that this Keynes-White scheme would provide a financial heaven on earth were—hiss this please—"bankers," "reactionaries," and "tories."

The Hillman CIO-pac published an expensive booklet on this line, and Mrs. Roosevelt chimed in at the right moment.

The bankers retrieved their hats, announced the fractional acceptance of some of their points by the house committee would make the scheme acceptable—and retired from the fray. (They need not worry much, for selfish reasons, as all the bank funds does is to guarantee their international loans, and the exchange fund tends to guarantee them against loss in handling foreign exchange.)

The dwindling crowd behind Taft does not include many bankers, but mostly economics and finance professors from the leading universities (Harvard, Chicago, California, Columbia, et al), a class of citizens supposed to be above earthly political considerations when it was promoting the new deal.

Many of these do not think it will work. In fact, the most objective experts I have consulted believe the basic theory was promoted by Lord Keynes to restore the British pound and world trade, which is a desirable ambition and necessary goal, but he and the treasury's White worked out the program in accordance with spending theories—free money, loose money, little interest, unbankable security, etc., on the principle that a bad loan is a good thing because it gives away money to spend. They really believe this.

The world political settlement at San Francisco gets away from that same old line in politics, which held "the United States cannot be prosperous unless the world is prosperous" (State Secretary Stettinius.)

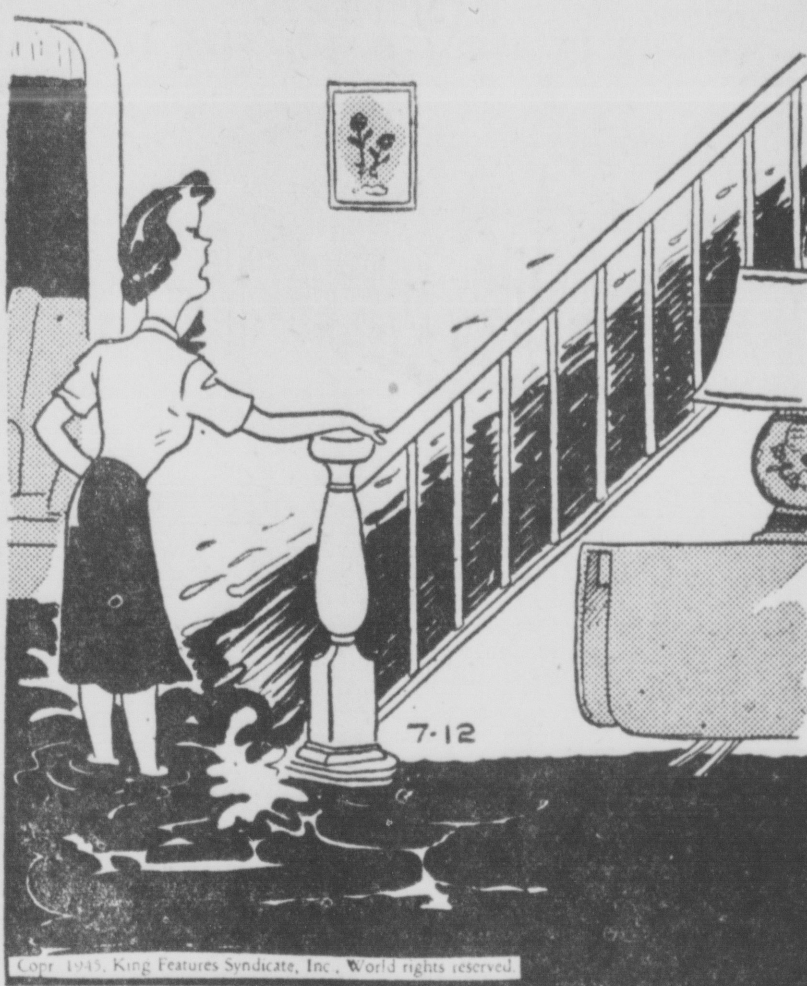

The final charter comes closer to the new and more popular theory of Admiral King, holding that the world cannot be prosperous unless the United States is kept prosperous (hence we should look to ourselves first, others next, watching the debt, keeping naval bases, not disbursing our resources loosely, etc.).

This change of line, represented in the charter, came too late to have any effect on the Bretton Woods financial agreements, made much earlier, in the midst of our war propaganda about us feeding everyone and saving everyone.

The charter keeps our conquering armies in position as the A-1 peace priority, lets the Navy (they say) keep its Pacific bases outside the trusteeship system and does not give away much.

Placenta Previa, Frequent Complication of Pregnancy

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

ONE of the complications of pregnancy which frequently occurs is known as placenta previa. This is a condition in which the placenta or afterbirth is fastened to the womb at the lower part instead of in the upper part, where it normally is fastened. Placenta previa shows itself first by slight to moderate bleeding. If proper attention is paid to this warning sign, steps can usually be taken to prevent a serious outcome.

According to Doctor Ralph A. Reis of Chicago, serious results occur because of repeated bleeding and shock, injury produced by too hasty birth of the baby and infections. If a woman is suspected of having placenta previa, he suggests that she be put into a hospital, and that no examination be carried out until the mother-to-be is in the hospital, and all preparations made for the birth of the baby.

Safety of Mother

It is the safety of the mother which is the prime consideration in the treatment of placenta previa, for the infant is often born before the normal time or has already succumbed before birth. It is probable, according to Doctor Reis, that the safest method of delivery for the mother is a Caesarian operation, for when this is done, bleeding can be promptly stopped. However, it is safe only when carried out in a well-conditioned hospital by a competent surgeon.

If delivery is not carried out by a Caesarian operation there are various procedures which are suggested in delivering the infant, which permit pressure to be made against the afterbirth to control the bleeding.

Doctor Reis points out that the most skilled type of care is needed in handling women with placenta previa. In certain localities, in the last ten years, a reduction in the number of maternal deaths has occurred, due to the fact that skilled care is available for all mothers who develop unusual complications of pregnancy, among them placenta previa.

It is important that all mothers-to-be have examinations made at regular and frequent intervals throughout pregnancy. This gives the doctor a chance to determine whether or not conditions are following the normal course. The blood pressure can be taken, the urine examined, and early signs of such disorders as toxemia or poisoning of pregnancy discovered. Examinations should be made every three weeks during the early months, and every two weeks or more often, after the seventh month.

CHAPTER FORTY-ONE

THE NEXT few weeks passed so quickly Terry was shocked one day as she stopped a moment at Sandy's office and her eye caught a calendar on the wall. "It can't be!" she fairly shrieked. "You mean to say it's only one more day before the convention starts in Buenos Aires?"

Sandy looked up from his desk and smiled his amusement. "Bless ye, Miss Terry, I didn't make the calendar. I only go by it and, strangely enough, I find that it's always right."

"I must be getting senile," Terry laughed. "They used to accuse me back in New York of not knowing what day it was, but at least I always knew the month."

"I don't see how ye even know that," Sandy nodded, "the way ye and the senora have been working on those houses these past few weeks."

"We HAVE worked," Terry agreed, "but it hasn't seemed like work. It's been such fun."

Sandy looked thoughtful. "I sometimes wonder if these peons appreciate all the Kimberly's are doing for 'em. And always have done for 'em as long as I've been here."

"I don't think you'd have any doubt of it," Terry said, "if you'd worked with them like we have for weeks. They're like little children. Everything delights them. Every time we put up a fresh curtain or even drive a tack in the wall to hang a picture, you'd think we were performing a miracle."

"I know that, child," Sandy said. "And still—"

"You're thinking of the workers' organization?"

Sandy admitted that he hadn't thought of much else for weeks. "I think there's only one answer to that," Terry said with conviction.

Sandy looked interested. "In their hearts I know the peons love the Kimberly's. I know, too, that they are a peace loving people. Whatever their actions have been, it has been from some outside influence based, I think, on threats and fear. They're simple-minded, child-like really, and could easily be intimidated."

"I stopped in at the taberna in the village last night to have a beer," Sandy said. "Dawson was there from Vistoso estancia. He says that they're havin' trouble with their peons, too. He'd talked to three other mayordomos and they all said the same thing."

"It must be a big organization,"

Terry said with awe. "That's what worries me. If it were just some small local trouble I'm sure we could clean it out in no time, but if it's nationwide, that's goin' to be another story."

Terry glanced at the wall clock. "My stars, is that right, a quarter after three?" she wailed.

Sandy laughed. "I'm afraid it's as right as the calendar. Ye really do have a time—with time."

Terry pulled on her gloves. "They're bringing the first load of stoves out from Buenos Aires this afternoon. I told Jim I'd supervise the installing."

"I saw a truck turn in the gate about a half hour ago," Sandy said. "They headed west on the section road."

"Oh—oh! I'll bet he's calling me all kinds of cute names by now."

Terry saw the large truck parked under a tree as she hurried down the dirt road. She could see the white porcelain of the stoves gleaming where the tarpaulin had been blown aside by the wind. From cottage to cottage they went, the men lugging the stoves into the bright new kitchens, Terry telling them where they were to be set. It was dinner time before the last stove had been placed and the truck had rumbled away.

That night, Jim sat across the coffee table from Terry, surrounded by a litter of newspapers partly cut to shreds. On her lap a large scrapbook laid open. Glue and scissors were close at hand.

"Either Brooks will have to quit making speeches or I'll have to get another scrapbook," she said with a gleam in her eye.

"Is that the last page?" Terry asked.

"Yes, and I have enough clippings to fill it."

"You might as well order another one right now," Terry suggested. "After he's in office there still will be press notices galore."

"And I'll keep everyone of them," Jim said. "I have clippings about Brooks in an old scrapbook upstairs that begin with his birth notice."

"I think that's such a nice hobby," Terry said. When the telephone rang Terry hesitated a moment before crossing to the desk to answer. Jim knew what she was thinking. Recalling the night Brooks had called a few weeks ago, "I'll get it," she said. Turning back to Jim, "It's for you. I think it's Roxie calling from the city."

Jim listened a long time, only getting in an occasional word.

When she hung up and came back to her chair she was laughing. "Roxie's wild," she said, chuckling. "She's furious with Artigas. Says he's been neglecting her again!"

"Poor Roxie," Terry laughed. She has a terrible time finding playmates in a busy world."

"She said that since this trouble has come up among the peons, Artigas has been working day and night to get at the bottom of it. To put it in her words, she said he'd been trailing about with his detectives trying to smell out a clue. All he needs, she said, is a curved pipe and a checked hunting cap to be the perfect Sherlock Holmes—and she didn't mind telling me she made a heck of a Dr. Watson."

Terry laughed, then abruptly turned serious. "I hope they do get at the bottom of that fendish scheme," she said.

"I certainly hope so, too," Jim responded.

About 10 o'clock Jim put the last clipping in her scrapbook and suggested that they go up to bed. They went, but after Terry was in her room and partly undressed she decided that sleep was out of the question. She quickly slipped back down the dimly lighted hall. She went out the side door from the living room into the night. The sharpness in the night air felt good in her lungs as she headed toward the old observatory. The sky was thick with stars. She had but one thought in mind—the last chapter of her novel. She knew it was going to be a hard one to write. The hero had to get his heroine. If the hero had only been Brooks and the heroine Corinne.

She climbed stealthily up the stone steps in the dark, feeling her way as she went. Once in the tower room she found the light quickly. Her hands trembled as she threaded a blank sheet of paper into her typewriter. She started to write. On and on her fingers flew. Then she stopped and gathered up the pages she had written. She read them over hurriedly—they were horrible. She crumpled them into a ball and flung them into the corner. She tried again and again, but it was always the same. Finally sleep overcame her. She retracted her steps with disappointment aching in her heart. She was thinking of Jim's words for solace. "It's the uncertainty of the future that keeps us going on." Tomorrow they were leaving the estancia for Buenos Aires and the convention.

WHILE AWAITING British general election results, Prime Minister Winston Churchill is taking a vacation—hoping, naturally, that it will not be a permanent one.

British film studios plan to make western pictures. It will be interesting to hear a couple of celluloid cowboys calling each other

West scored his spade K and A, then switched to the diamond 7 to the J and A. South led his heart 3 to the J and A, whereupon East switched to the club J, the K forcing the A. That made four tricks for the defense, and South could afford to lose only one more.

West sent back the diamond Q to the K, and South scored his last four hearts. This forced a bunch of discards from the defenders. West held to his spade J, club 7 and diamond 10. East to his diamond A and club 10-8. The dummy retained the spade Q-10 and diamond 8.

Then South asked the defenders for help and got it. To the 11th trick he led the diamond 2, not caring who won it. If East did, he would have to return a club to the Q-9, which would get the last two tricks. West won the diamond, however, with the 10. Now see what he was up against. If he led the spade J, the dummy would finish with two spade tricks. If he led the club 7, which he did, he put East's holding under the hammer, so that the club combination completed the hand for South and made his contract.

THE FULL, REAL STORY of America's successful submarine campaign against the Japs may never be told—even after hostilities cease in the Pacific.

To high-ranking Navy men the whole undersea campaign is in the "secret weapon" category, and perhaps rightfully so. Very little has appeared in print or in the movies about American subs, although they have done one of the greatest jobs of the war.

This is "tough" on the sub officers and enlisted men, but most of them realize the importance of keeping their tactics and strategy secret.

Result: Some of the most thrilling stories of the war are gathering dust in Navy files marked "secret."

ONE OF THE FIRST EFFORTS of Paul M. Herzog, new chairman of the National Labor Relations board, is expected to be directed toward "de-personalizing" that embattled agency.

As chairman of the New York State Labor board, Herzog never stifled dissenting opinions but he ran the board much like a court, keeping personalities and quarrels out of the limelight. His friends say he hopes to do the same thing at NLRB.

Board members will arrive at their decisions and thresh out disagreements quietly and privately and present the NLRB to the public as a board and not three distinct personalities. Previously, former Chairman Harry Mills and Member John Houston voted together regularly. Gerald Rilly was usually in the minority.

Their difference in viewpoint was well advertised and the public looked upon the NLRB as a divided agency, predicting its decision in almost every case from the line of questioning at public hearings.

IMPATIENCE OF SENATORS to get back home out of Washington's heat might bring an unexpected streamlining in the procedure of ratifying the San Francisco charter.

The charter has become increasingly non-controversial. One by one, a few senators, though opposing it, have signified their intent of either going along or being passive toward it.

Having been pretty well aired, the document probably will get but brief hearings before the Senate Foreign Relations committee.

JUSTICE ROBERTS

JUSTICE Owen J. Roberts, in retiring from the Supreme Court at the age of 70, returns to an early tradition of the office. Justices 70 years old are entitled to a pension, and in the past most of them have taken it. During the last 15 years the opposite tendency has prevailed.

There have been brilliant judges on the bench after 70, but there have also been some who should have retired before they did. A half century ago his colleagues had practically to force off the bench a judge who had passed 80. One who, singularly enough, had years previously waited on a colleague with the same errand. And not many years ago a federal circuit court judge of advanced years was found to be so blind and deaf that he followed a colleague's decisions without change.

Justice Roberts is still in the prime of intellectual vigor. So were Justices Louis D. Brandeis and Oliver Wendell Holmes, who resigned at 80 and 91 respectively. Yet it might be argued that Brandeis and Holmes set an undesirable precedent by staying so long. From this viewpoint Justice Roberts' example is to be commended.

THE NEW CAR PROSPECT

DO not be misled by the War Production Board prediction that automobile rationing probably can end next January. It doesn't mean plenty of new cars on the market then. Not by a long shot.

The industry has permission to build about 245,000 cars in what's left of 1945, if it can get materials and labor. If that many are built they will be rationed to essential drivers—police forces, doctors, nurses, etc. Then, perhaps, rationing will be lifted and, so far as the government is concerned, everybody will be free to shop for new cars. That's all the prediction means.

And shopping is as far as most of the people who want new cars are likely to get for a long time.

The WPB has authorized production of about 450,000 autos in the first three months of 1946, and hopes to boost that figure as materials loosen up. The second and later quarters of 1946 should see further increases, but production at a rate, say, of a million cars every three months—which isn't much higher than in such depression years as 1936 and 1937—can hardly be reached until late next year. And not then if the Japs are still fighting.

Even a million and a half new cars every three months, or six million a year, probably wouldn't meet the demand for quite a while. Because no passenger autos have been built for three and a half years, while many millions of old ones have worn out and ceased to run.

So, just because rationing may be lifted in January, don't count too much on buying a new car soon thereafter. And meanwhile take good care of your present car, if you have one.

WASHINGTON, July 14—Senator Taft has been playing Horatius at the senate bridge, holding back the Bretton Woods world financial peace agreements, but soon he will have to swim for it.

Many objective men with thorough knowledge of the complex subject think he is right, but know he cannot stand against the avalanche of propaganda organized shrewdly by the treasury to thrust its program through.

CHAPTER FORTY-ONE

THE NEXT few weeks passed so quickly Terry was shocked one day as she stopped a moment at Sandy's office and her eye caught a calendar on the wall. "It can't be!" she fairly shrieked. "You mean to say it's only one more day before the convention starts in Buenos Aires?"

Sandy looked up from his desk and smiled at her amusement. "Bless ye, Miss Terry, I didn't make the calendar. I only go by it and, strangely enough, I find that it's always right."

"I must be getting senile," Terry laughed. "They used to accuse me in New York of not knowing what day it was, but at least I always knew the month."

"I don't see how ye even know that," Sandy nodded, "the way ye and the senora have been working on those houses these past few weeks."

"We HAVE worked," Terry agreed, "but it hasn't seemed like work. It's been such fun."

Sandy looked thoughtful. "I sometimes wonder if these peons appreciate all the Kimberlys are doing for 'em. And always have done for 'em as long as I've been here."

"I don't think you'd have any doubt of it," Terry said, "if you'd worked with them like we have for weeks. They're like little children. Everything delights them. Every time we put up a fresh curtain or even drive a tack in the wall to hang a picture, you'd think we were performing a miracle."

"I know that, child," Sandy said. "And still—"

"You're thinking of the workers' organization?"

Sandy admitted that he hadn't thought of much else for weeks.

"I think there's only one answer to that," Terry said with conviction.

"Sandy looked interested."

"In their hearts I know the peons love the Kimberlys. I know, too, that they are a peace loving people. Whatever their actions have been, it has been from some outside influence based, I think, on threats and fear. They're simple-minded, child-like really, and could easily be intimidated."

"I stopped in at the taberna in the village last night to have a beer," Sandy said. "Dawson was there from Viosteo estancia. He says that they're havin' trouble with their peons, too. He'd talked to three other mayordomos and they all said the same thing."

"It must be a big organization,"

Terry said with awe. "That's what worries me. If it were just some small local trouble I'm sure we could clean it out in no time, but if it's nationwide, that's goin' to be another story."

"Terry glanced at the wall clock. 'My stars, is that right, a quarter after three?' she said."

Sandy laughed. "I'm afraid it's as right as the calendar. Ye really do have a time—with time."

"They're bringing the first load of stoves out from Buenos Aires this afternoon. I told Jim I'd supervise the installing."

"I saw a truck turn in the gate about a half hour ago," Sandy said. "They headed west on the section road."

"Oh—oh! I'll bet he's calling me all kinds of cute names by now."

Terry saw the large truck parked under a tree as she hurried down the dirt road. She could see the white porcelain of the stoves gleaming where the tarpaulin had been blown aside by the wind. From cottage to cottage they went, the men lugging the stoves into the bright new kitchens, Terry telling them where they were to be set. It was dinner time before the last stove had been placed and the truck had rumbled away.

That night, Jim sat across the coffee table from Terry, surrounded by a litter of newspapers partly cut to shreds. On her lap a large scrapbook lay open. Glue and scissors were close at hand.

"Either Brooks will have to quit making speeches or I'll have to get another scrapbook," she said with a gleam in her eye.

"Is that the last page?" Terry asked.

"Yes, and I have enough clippings to fill it."

"You might as well order another one right now," Terry suggested. "After he's in office there still will be press notices galore."

"And I'll keep everyone of them," Jim said. "I have clippings about Brooks in an old scrapbook upstairs that began with his birth notice."

"I think that's such a nice hobby," Terry said. "When the telephone rang Terry hesitated a moment before crossing to the desk to answer. Jim knew what she was thinking. Recalling the night Brooks had called a few weeks ago, "I'll get it," she said. Turning back to Jim, "It's for you. I think it's Roxie calling from the city."

Jim listened a long time, only getting in an occasional word.

DO YOU NEED HELPERS?

MANY A JOB cannot be done without help. If that is the case when you are declarer in a mean contract, give the opponents a chance. Possibly you can work it out so that they have to help you, whether they like it or not. There may be a situation in which you wish you could finesse some dummy suit, but have no card of it to lead. Also there may be in your own hand a tenace suit with a finessing chance if you could only get the lead into the dummy, but no entry over there. Then your only hope is to make the defenders do what you cannot do for yourself.

Interesting play can come from low contracts, and it did here.

West scored his spade K and A, then switched to the diamond 7 to the J and A. South led his heart 3 to the K and A, whereupon East switched to the club J, the K forcing the A. That made four tricks for the defense, and South could afford to lose only one more.

West sent back the diamond Q to the K, and South scored his last four hearts. This forced a bunch of discards from the defenders. West held to his spade J, club 7 and diamond 10, East to his diamond 9 and club 10-8. The dummy retained the spade Q-10 and diamond 8.

Then South asked the defenders for help and got it. To the 11th trick he led the diamond 2, not caring who won it. If East did, he would have to return a club to the Q-9, which would get the last two tricks. West won the diamond, however, with the 10. Now see what he was up against. If he led the spade J, the dummy would finish with two spade tricks. If he led the club 7, which he did, he put East's holding under the hammer, so that the club combination completed the hand for South and made his contract.

Your Week-End Question
What is the conventional order of play from four cards of the long suit led by your partner against a No Trump game contract, and why is it a sound convention?

Mr. Dresbach, Miss Little
Are Married In Nevada

Las Vegas Is Scene
Of Ceremony Read
June 12

In the Little Church of the West at Hotel Last Frontier, Las Vegas, Nevada, Miss Barbara Little, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. P. Little, Richmond, Va., became the bride of Mr. Harold Dresbach, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Dresbach, East Main street.

The vows were read June 12 by the Rev. Albert C. Melton, and the only attendants for the couple were Lt. and Mrs. Frank Brzoticky, Denver, Col.

A white pique afternoon frock was worn by the bride, for her marriage, and a white picture hat completed her costume. She carried a nose-gay bouquet of sweet-peas and gardenias.

The new Mrs. Dresbach was graduated from Westhampton high school in Richmond and attended William and Mary college. She had been employed as a private secretary to a physician and surgeon in San Diego, Calif.

Mr. Dresbach was graduated from Circleville high school and attended Capital University. He has been working for the advertising department of Consolidated Aircraft Company, broadcasting over the Airfan Radio Corp. Station KFSD in San Diego.

Following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served in the Ramona room at the hotel.

The couple left San Diego, June 22 for an extended wedding trip. They went to Grand Canyon in Arizona, Petrified Forest and the Painted Desert, "Toas", an art colony in New Mexico, Pike's Peak in Colorado, and visited Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kraft, former residents of Circleville in Longmont, Colorado.

They spent three days touring the Rocky mountains and visited Yellowstone National Park and the Black Hills in South Dakota.

The couple arrived in Circleville Friday afternoon to spend two weeks with Mr. Dresbach's parents. After a visit with Mrs. Dresbach's parents in Richmond, the couple will return to Circleville to make their home.

Mrs. Watt Speaks
To Garden Club

Mrs. Donald H. Watt was the guest speaker at the meeting of the Deer Creek Garden club, Thursday evening, when members met at the home of Mrs. George McGee, near Williamsport.

She spoke on her trip to Camp Clifton, near Yellow Springs, which was sponsored by the Ohio Association of Garden clubs. Mrs. Orin King, who also attended the camp gave a talk. Mrs. Ella Hornbeck went with Mrs. Watt and Mrs. King to attend the meeting.

Refreshments were served to the 40 members and guests by the hostess and plans were made for the next meeting, Aug. 2, which will be a picnic at Ted Lewis park.

Committee Named
At Aid Meeting

Mrs. Howard Younklin, Mrs. Rosa Fausnaugh and Mrs. Earl Hott, were named as the nominating committee, at the meeting of the Scioto Chapel Ladies Aid society, Thursday evening at the parish house.

Mrs. Cecil Ward, who was in charge of the devotionals, read the scripture and the Rev. O. W. Smith offered prayer.

Mrs. Roy Davis, program leader, arranged the program, which opened with group singing. Readings were given by Mrs. Nellie Fausnaugh, Mrs. Raymond Hott, Mrs. Davis, Miss Etta Jo Maynard, and Miss Jo Marlow. Mrs. Cecil Ward offered a vocal solo and a trio included Mrs. J. B. Maynard, Mrs. Marlow and Miss Maynard. Group singing concluded the program.

A lunch was served to the 42 members and guests by Mrs. Maynard, Mrs. Sam Williams, Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Paul Timmons. During the social hour, Election of officers will be conducted at the August meeting.

Morris I. Boggs
Weds Sidney Girl

Announcement is being made of the marriage of Mr. Morris I. Boggs, Circleville, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Boggs, to Mary Louise Bertsch, of Sidney, O.

The couple were married July 12. Mr. Boggs, who has just been honorably discharged from the army, is a member of a very prominent Circleville family. Before his enlistment in the service he was deputy sheriff for Pickaway county.

God's Purpose for Abraham

The whole earth spoke one language, after the flood, and the people said they would build a city and a tower to reach to heaven, but the Lord confounded them so that they could not understand one another's speech.

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Genesis 11:26-12:20.

Terah, Abram's father, took his son, Abram, Sarah his wife, Lot, his son, and "went forth with them from Ur of the Chaldees, to go into the land of Canaan, and they came to Haran and dwelt there."

The Lord appeared to Abram and told him He would give him the land of the Canaanites, and Abram removed from the place he was living and pitched his tent near a mountain and builded there an altar to the Lord.

Abram took his wife to Egypt because of a famine in their land, but fearing the Egyptians would kill him and take his wife because she was beautiful, he told them she was his sister.

God's Purpose for Abraham

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for July 15 is Genesis 11:26-12:20, the Memory Verse being Proverbs 3:6, "In all thy ways acknowledge Him, and He will direct thy paths.")

COMPARED WITH the many chapters assigned to previous lessons, the assignment this time is very short. In view of that fact, we may just mention the beginning of the 11th chapter of Genesis, in which is described where the descendants of Noah lived, and how all spoke one language.

They said to one another, let us make some brick and let us build a city and a tower that will reach to heaven; "and let us make a name lest we be scattered abroad upon the face of the whole earth."

So they built a tower, but the Lord saw what they were doing, and He said, "Behold, the people is one, and they have all one language and this they begin to do; and now nothing will be restrained from them, which they have imagined to do."

So God confounded their language so that they could not understand one another, and they were scattered over the face of the earth and they stopped building the tower and the city. Thus the tower was called Babel.

Terah, Father of Abram

Terah is said to be father of Abram, and his other sons were Nahor and Haran. Haran was Lot's father, Lot being Abram's nephew. Sarah, spelled Sarai at first, was Abram's wife, but she had no children. Haran died before Terah.

Terah took Abram, his son, Lot, his grandson, and Abram's wife, Sarah, and they went from Ur of the Chaldees, into the land of Canaan, and they lived at Haran, and there Terah died.

Now the Lord had said unto Abram, Get thee out of thy country, and from thy kindred, and from thy father's house, unto a land that I will shew thee:

"And I will make of thee a great nation, and I will bless thee, and make thy name great; and thou shalt be a blessing."

Abram had not done as he was told, when he took his father with him, but now he left Haran with his wife and Lot and all his possessions, and went to Canaan. The Lord appeared to Abram here and said, "Unto thy seed will I give this land."

So Abram builded an altar, and then went to a mountain on the east of Bethel, and pitched his tent, and there he builded an altar to the Lord and "called upon the name of the Lord."

Some time after this there was a famine in the land, and Abram went to Egypt, where he thought they would have plenty of food. On the way he looked at his wife, Sarai, and thought what a beautiful woman she was. The rich Egyptians, he thought, even the Pharaoh, might want her and kill Abram so they could take her. Therefore, Abram told her that she should pass as his sister instead of his wife, so that his life would be safe.

Odd, wasn't it, that in spite of God's assurances to him, Abram was afraid to trust Him and so lied and deceived the Egyptians?

Find Sarai Fair

The Egyptians found Sarai very fair, and the princes recommended her to Pharaoh, and she was taken into Pharaoh's house. For her sake Pharaoh treated Abram well, giving him "sheep, and oxen, and he asses, and menservants, and maid-servants, and she asses and camels."

But to Pharaoh's bewilderment, his house was afflicted with plagues because of Abram's deception—which hardly seemed fair—so at last Pharaoh called Abram to him and said, "What is this thou hast done unto me? Why didst thou not tell me that she was thy wife?"

"Why saidst thou, She is my sister? so I might have taken her to me to wife; now, therefore behold thy wife, take her, and go thy way."

Pharaoh gave his men orders concerning Abram, and they sent him away, and his wife, and all that he had."

It was the Egyptian, an idolater, who was the real man in this case. Even when he found he had been deceived, he did not punish the man who had lied to him, but merely reproached him, restored his wife to him and let him go on his way.

"The conduct of Pharaoh is upright and dignified. The silence of Abram seems to indicate his consciousness that Pharaoh had acted more righteously than he himself," a commentator says. And yet he repeated this offense later, as you may remember, so he really did not seem to be truly repentant.

'PERPLEXITIES' IS SUBJECT FOR SUNDAY SERVICE

"An Earnest Soul's Perplexities" will be the theme of the sermon to be delivered Sunday morning in the Presbyterian church by the Rev. Carl L. Kennedy. The sermon is based on the trying experiences of Job, a legendary Arabian chieftain.

Mrs. Clark Will is to be soprano soloist, singing Liddle's composition, "How Lovely Are Thy Dwellings." Miss Abbe Mills Clarke, at the organ console, will play "Prelude" from Handel's "Water Music," "Andante" from Beethoven's "Fifth Symphony," "Cantilena" by Archer, and "Triumphal March" by Costa.

Mr. Dresbach, Miss Little Are Married In Nevada

Las Vegas Is Scene Of Ceremony Read June 12

In the Little Church of the West at Hotel Last Frontier, Las Vegas, Nevada, Miss Barbara Little, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. P. Little, Richmond, Va., became the bride of Mr. Harold Dresbach, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Dresbach, East Main street.

The vows were read June 12 by the Rev. Albert C. Melton, and the only attendants for the couple were Lt. and Mrs. Frank Brzoticky, Denver, Col.

A white pique afternoon frock was worn by the bride, for her marriage, and a white picture hat completed her costume. She carried a nose-gay bouquet of sweet-peas and gardenias.

The new Mrs. Dresbach was graduated from Westhampton high school in Richmond and attended William and Mary college. She had been employed as a private secretary to a physician and surgeon in San Diego, Calif.

Mr. Dresbach was graduated from Circleville high school and attended Capital university. He has been working for the advertising department of Consolidated Aircraft Company, broadcasting over the Airline Radio Corp. Station KFSD in San Diego.

Following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served in the Ramona room at the hotel.

The couple left San Diego, June 22 for an extended wedding trip. They went to Grand Canyon in Arizona, Petrified Forest and the Painted Desert, "Toas", an art colony in New Mexico, Pikes Peak in Colorado, and visited Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kraft, former residents of Circleville in Longmont, Colorado.

They spent three days touring the Rocky mountains and visited Yellowstone National Park and the Black Hills in South Dakota.

The couple arrived in Circleville Friday afternoon to spend two weeks with Mr. Dresbach's parents. After a visit with Mrs. Dresbach's parents in Richmond, the couple will return to Circleville to make their home.

Mrs. Watt Speaks To Garden Club

God's Purpose for Abraham

The whole earth spoke one language, after the flood, and the people said they would build a city and a tower to reach to heaven, but the Lord confounded them so that they could not understand one another's speech.

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Genesis 11:26-12:20.

By Alfred J. Buescher

Terah, Abram's father, took his son, Abram, Sarah his wife, Lot, his son Haran's son, and "went forth with them from Ur of the Chaldees, to go into the land of Canaan, and they came to Haran and dwelt there."

The Lord appeared to Abram and told him He would give him the land of the Canaanites, and Abram removed from the place he was living and pitched his tent near a mountain and builded there an altar to the Lord.

Abram took his wife to Egypt because of a famine in their land, but fearing the Egyptians would kill him and take his wife because she was beautiful, he told them she was his sister.

MEMORY VERSE—Proverb 3:6.

God's Purpose for Abraham

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for July 15 is Genesis 11:26-12:20, the Memory Verse being Proverbs 3:6, "In all thy ways acknowledge Him, and He will direct thy path.")

COMPARED WITH the many chapters assigned to previous lessons, the assignment this time is very short. In view of that fact, we may just mention the beginning of the 11th chapter of Genesis, in which is described where the descendants of Noah lived, and how all spoke one language.

They said to one another, let us make some brick and let us build a city and a tower that will reach to heaven; "and let us make a name lest we be scattered abroad upon the face of the whole earth."

So they built a tower, but the Lord saw what they were doing, and He said, "Behold, the people are one, and they have all one language and this they begin to do; and now nothing will be restrained from them, which they have imagined to do."

So God confounded their language so that they could not understand one another, and they were scattered over the face of the earth and they stopped building the tower and the city. Thus the tower was called Babel.

Terah, Father of Abram

Abram is said to be father of Terah, and his other sons were Nahor and Haran. Haran was Lot's father, Lot being Abram's nephew. Sarah, spelled Sarai at first, was Abram's wife, but she had no children. Haran died before Terah.

Terah took Abram, his son, Lot, his grandson, and Abram's wife, Sarai, and they went from Ur of the Chaldees, into the land of Canaan, and they lived at Haran, and there Terah died.

Now the Lord had said unto Abram, Get thee out of thy country, and from thy father's house, unto a land that I will shew thee:

"And I will make of thee a great nation, and I will bless thee, and make thy name great; and thou shalt be a blessing."

Abram had not done as he was told, when he took his father with him, but now he left Haran with his wife and Lot and all his possessions, and went to Canaan. The Lord appeared to Abram here

and said, "Unto thy seed will I give this land."

So Abram builded an altar, and then went to a mountain on the east of Bethel, and pitched his tent, and there he builded an altar to the Lord and "called upon the name of the Lord."

Some time after this there was a famine in the land, and Abram went to Egypt, where he thought they would have plenty of food. On the way he looked at his wife, Sarai, and thought what a beautiful woman she was. The rich Egyptians, he thought, even the Pharaoh, might want her and kill Abram so they could take her. Therefore, Abram told her that she should pass as his sister instead of his wife, so that his life would be safe.

Odd, wasn't it, that in spite of God's assurances to him, Abram was afraid to trust Him and so lied and deceived the Egyptians?

Find Sarai Fair

The Egyptians found Sarai very fair, and the princes recommended her to Pharaoh, and she was taken into Pharaoh's house. For her sake Pharaoh treated Abram well, giving him "sheep, and oxen, and he asses, and menservants, and maid-servants, and she asses and camels."

But to Pharaoh's bewilderment, his house was afflicted with plagues because of Abram's deception—which hardly seemed fair—so at last Pharaoh called Abram to him and said, "What is this thou hast done unto me? Why didst thou not tell me that she was thy wife?"

"Why saidst thou, She is my sister? so I might have taken her to me to wife; now, therefore behold thy wife, take her, and go thy way."

Pharaoh gave his men orders concerning Abram, and they sent him away, and his wife, and all that he had.

It was the Egyptian, an idolater, who was the real man in this case. Even when he found he had been deceived, he did not punish the man who had lied to him, but merely reproached him, restored his wife to him and let him go on his way.

"The conduct of Pharaoh is upright and dignified. The silence of Abram seems to indicate his consciousness that Pharaoh had acted more righteously than he himself," a commentator says. And yet he repeated this offense later, as you may remember, so he really did not seem to be truly reformed.

PASTOR'S HOME TO BE SCENE OF CHURCH MEETING

NEWS Behind the NEWS

The air agreement at Chicago, somewhat like Bretton Woods, proposes to give away considerable business to foreign airlines. It also was made earlier, when the nation was under the give-away spell, although it contains restrictions, and Russia refused to go into it (a separate agreement with her now is secretly in the making, and may be taken up at the Berlin meeting).

But Horatio himself with all his mythological powers could not serve the Bretton Woods formulas away from their basic give-away plane today, without being labeled a "Fascist" or something similar.

This is not an observation. It is a report on majority sentiment in the senate, where the inclination runs deeply in favor of letting the give-it-away boys get away with this one, largely because they believe in it so fanatically, and will murder a lot of senatorial characters unless they do.

As for Taft, he will await his reward in coming years when the $18,000,000 runs dry and more money is needed, or the program otherwise disintegrates through its own looseness. That time may not be as far off as you might guess.

IKE WINDING UP SHAEF BUSINESS AFTER VACATION

FRANKFURT, Germany, July 14—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, tanned and rested after a vacation in the United States, was back at headquarters today preparing to disband the supreme command through which he directed the defeat of Germany.

Eisenhower's supreme headquarters will go out of existence at 12:01 a. m. tomorrow, France's Bastille day.

Departing British members of his staff tendered a farewell party for the Allied commander last night in the administration building of the huge I. G. Farbenindustrie chemical plant here.

Air Marshal Sir Arthur W. Tedder, Eisenhower's chief deputy, and other ranking British officers were present, along with Eisenhower and his American aides.

ASHVILLE

Miss Mary Lorane Boylan returned to her home in Washington, C. H. Friday after a short visit with Miss Anne Shauck.

John Courtright, who has been making his home with his grandmother, Mrs. Laura Courtright this Summer, is spending the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Courtright of Marion.

Lt. (j. g.) Walter Gregg is visiting with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Gregg. Lt. Gregg is in the physical education department at the Iowa Pre-Flight Naval School.

Sgt. William Pettibone, who is home on furlough, completed 35 missions over enemy territory. He was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross, the Air Medal, a silver oak leaf denoting 25 missions, and four oak leaf clusters on his ribbon.

Pvt. Lowell Neece is visiting his mother, Mrs. Edna Neece while on a delay between Camp Wheeler, Georgia and Ft. Riley, Kansas.

Will W. Fischer, Sr. left Friday for Magnetic Springs where he expects to remain for a week's rest and vacation.

After watching four men operating a pick-up hay bailer on the Walter Hedges' farm Friday turning out some 175 bales of hay per hour loaded on wagons, I thought of the "god old days" when I drove a team around and around furnishing the power for a wooden bailer and "poking" the wires all day to turn out about 150 bales. Today that would represent less than an hour's output. With the modern equipment found on most farms today, there will never be the demand for farm labor that existed up to the past two years. The scarcity of farm labor has led to a new era in farm methods, and few farmers will turn again to cutting and husking corn by hand even though labor again becomes plentiful. The invasion of the picturesque corn cutters from the hills is probably a thing of the past, and we wonder what will become of the folk who used to get their year's spending money from harvesting the corn crop for others. Maybe there's something in our "planned economy" to take care of the situation.

A letter was received this week from Harold Tosca S 2/c revealing that he was all right. It had been some five weeks since any word had been received from him.

BREWERS KEEP SLIGHT LEAD; BIRDS WIN 17-2

By United Press Milwaukee maintained its slight lead over Indianapolis in the American Association today after Owen Scheetz pitched the Brewers to his 11th win, 9 to 5, against St. Paul to end a four-game series.

Indianapolis, which downed Toledo 4 to 3 yesterday in 11 innings, stood out with 50 seasons wins, three more than Milwaukee. The Brewer's percentage, however, was .603 to the Indians' .595. Milwaukee has dropped 31 games to Indianapolis 34.

Milwaukee rallied five runs in the eighth behind the steady hurling of Scheetz. Three of the Apostles' four runs in the sixth were unearned.

Other American Association results yesterday: Columbus 17, Louisville 2; Kansas City 10, Minneapolis 1 (called after eight innings to allow team to catch train).

COAST PITCHER STRIKES OUT 27 BATTERS IN ROW

SAN DIEGO, Calif., July 14—Coast Guardsman Lester Haney of Taft, Calif., today claimed a pitching record for striking out 27 successive batters after he hurled the Vista community softball team to victory over the Amphibious Kids of San Diego.

The 19-year-old wonder, who has tossed eight previous no-hit games, allowed only three foul balls. The victims were undefeated before the game.

NEWS Behind the NEWS

The air agreement at Chicago, somewhat like Bretton Woods, proposes to give away considerable business to foreign airlines. It also was made earlier, when the nation was under the give-away spell, although it contains restrictions, and Russia refused to go into it (a separate agreement with her now is secretly in the making, and may be taken up at the Berlin meeting.)

But Horatio himself with all his mythological powers could not swerve the Bretton Woods formula away from their basic give-away plane today, without being labeled a "Fascist" or something similar.

This is not an observation. It is a report on majority sentiment in the senate, where the inclination runs deeply in favor of letting the give-it-away boys get away with this one, largely because they believe in it so fanatically, and will murder a lot of senatorial characters unless they do.

As for Taft, he will await his reward in coming years when the $18,000,000,000 runs dry and more money is needed, or the program otherwise disintegrates through its own looseness. That time may not be as far off as you might guess.

BREWERS KEEP SLIGHT LEAD; BIRDS WIN 17-2

By United Press

Milwaukee maintained its slight lead over Indianapolis in the American Association today after Owen Scheetz pitched the Brewers to his 11th win, 9 to 5, against St. Paul to end a four-game series.

Indianapolis, which downed Toledo 4 to 3 yesterday in 11 innings, stood out with 50 seasons wins, three more than Milwaukee. The Brewer's percentage, however, was .603 to the Indians' .595. Milwaukee has dropped 31 games to Indianapolis 34.

Milwaukee rallied five runs in the eighth behind the steady hurling of Scheetz. Three of the Apostles' four runs in the sixth were unearned.

Other American Association results yesterday: Columbus 17, Louisville 2; Kansas City 10, Minneapolis 1 (called after eight innings to allow team to catch train).

Seerey Hits Three Homers And Triple As Indians Win; Reds Victors

The league-leading Chicago Cubs were back in winning form today having copped their 12th win in 13 starts.

Behind the four-hit pitching of Lefty Ray Prim the Cubs downed Boston 2-0 Friday. Prim also singled across the first run in the fifth inning.

Frank McCormick's single with one out in the ninth inning scored Dain Clay and gave the Cincinnati Reds a 6-5 victory over Brooklyn. Elmer Riddle grabbed his first victory of the season when he delivered Ed Heusser in the eighth.

Pittsburgh and Philadelphia divided a double bill, the Phils taking the first game 11-9 and the Bucs winning the second 3-2. The St. Louis Cardinals won Boston twice, downing New York 14-3 and 4-1. Charles "Red" Barrett scored his 11th victory in the second game.

The Cleveland Indians slugged out 17 hits, three of them homers by Pat Seerey, and trounced the New York Yankees 16-4. Seerey also had a triple and batted in eight runs. Dave "Doc" Ferriss allowed seven hits as he won his 15th game of the season, as Boston Red Sox won 5-1 from the Detroit Tigers.

A single in the ninth by George Case gave the Washington Senators a 3-2 victory over the Chicago White Sox and moved the Senators closer to the American league lead.

Mike Kreevich's double in the eleventh broke up a 2-2 tie game and gave the St. Louis Browns a 4-2 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics.

BYRD, NELSON ARE FAVORED TO MEET IN FINALS

DAYTON, O., July 14—The roundhouse swing which wasn't good enough to get Sammy Byrd a regular job with the Yankees, today gave him a strong chance to win golf's most coveted prize—the National P. G. A. championship.

Byrd, baseball's famous bench rider of 15 years ago, plays Clarence Doser of Hartsdale, N. Y., in the semi-finals of the 27th P. G. A. classic today while Claude Harmon of Detroit celebrates his 29th birthday by trying to eliminate Byron Nelson, the man to beat from Toledo.

Both Nelson and Byrd, now a pro at Detroit, are expected to breeze through their opponents. This would send two of the game's longest hitters into the finals Sunday to fight for the $5,000 in war bonds going to the champion.

the airshow for the past five years. Greene, incidentally, is a one-man script department—one of the few radio show writers who operates without assistants and gag writers. He claims that one of his best sources of material for the "Blondie" shows is his own family, composed of himself, his wife, Helen, and two young children—a household similar in size and content to the "Bumstead" fold.

Anne Roselle will be guest soprano when "Great Moments in Music" presents highlights from Kalman's operetta, "The Gypsy Princess" over Wednesday. Heard with Miss Roselle will be Jan Pearce, tenor, and Robert Weede, baritone, with George Sebastian conducting the orchestra.

Private Al Rossi lost both his legs in action, yet he is an accomplished dancer. His teacher was Mrs. Ethel Fister who has been instructing amputees in the art of terpsichore at Walter Reed General Hospital, Washington, D. C. The private, Mrs. Fister, and Sergeant Ferdinand Le Claire, another amputee who took lessons from Mrs. Fister, will all appear on "We the People" over Sunday when Milo Boulton will interview them.

A new recording company, Cosmopolitan Records, has just been formed, and among the artists signed to waxing contracts is Jerry Wayne, currently starred with his own series. His radio guest Friday, July 20, will be Tallulah Bankhead.

The life story of Vice Admiral Marc A. Mitscher will be dramatized on "Men of Vision," the new program centering around American airpower and the men who made it possible, Sunday.

"Blondie Visits Camp" and the Bumsteads become involved with Indian trouble Sunday, July 15.

FEATURE FAVORITES

The Hour of Charm's broadcast for Sunday, July 15, features as imposing a list of musical com-edy favorites as any lover of the stage would care to assemble in one program. Phil Spitalny and his all-girl orchestra are all set to do an outstanding job with the works of such notables as Vincent Youmans, Rudolph Friml, Jerome Kern and Cole Porter.

CORPSES NUMEROUS

"A Penny for Your Corpse," says "Nick Carter — Master Detective," when he is called upon to solve an unusual murder mys-tery, in the crime-drama broad- cast Sunday, Corpses are slightly better than a dime a dozen, in this hair-raising adventure of the mas- ter detective, Lon Clark stars as Carter, with Charlotte Manson as his assistant, Patsy. Jack Mac- Gregor directs.

PRISONERS ON VOX POP

Soldier prisoners-of-war and re- covered wounded veterans report- ing for duty will relate first-hand battle experiences on Vox Pop, from the Army Ground and Ser- vice Forces Redistribution Station, Lake Placid, New York, on Mon- day. Combat veterans with full quota of overseas' action will be chosen for Vox Pop. The Lake Placid returnees are from the China-Burma-India theatre, the Pacific, Europe, Italy and Aleu- tians. About 75% of the men wear the Purple Heart. They are sta- tioned at Lake Placid for a two- week period of orientation, reclass- ification, and reassignment.

OLSEN ON 'SPOTLIGHT'

The boys at the U. S. naval air station in Glenview, Illinois, are in for a treat when they hear George Olsen and his orchestra on Monday on "The Victory Parade of Spotlight Bands" program. Although Olsen is content to wave a baton today, had he wanted to, he could have become a one-man-band. Even as a youngster he was a wizard on the piano, drums and violin. At least if the occasion arises for a pinch hitter now, he's available.

West Mound Street 'Platoon' Latest Local Military Organization

MAJOR RADCLIFF Organizes 'Platoon' COMMANDS NEW ARMY DIVISION

Captain, Lieutenants And Nurse Other Members Of Military Order

Circleville's newest military organization is being formed on West Mound street between the first alley West of Court and Scioto street.

At present members are awaiting the return of at least one or two of the White boys and Capt. James Boggs to have enough for a platoon. Major William D. Radcliff, who with Mrs. Radcliff are living at the home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Gay L. Hitler, is in charge of the organization plans. He said Friday that early morning drill was being started just as soon as they could find a bugler to "get 'em up."

Lt. Lydia Given was one of the first to arrive in that particular section from overseas duty. Everyone will recall that she was the Circleville nurse who had an audience with the King and Queen of England.

David Steinhauer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Steinhauer, who is really the veteran of the organization was discharged from service June 30 after serving five and one-half years. He saw service in many foreign countries and finished his fighting career in Germany. He had points to spare when he reached the separation center. When he left for the United States he was serving with the 69th Quartermasters company of the 69th division of the First Army.

A member of the medical corps, Captain William Monger, who with Mrs. Monger and small daughter is spending a furlough at the home of Mrs. Monger's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Lyle, makes the third member of the group. Capt. Monger, who served for six months overseas, saw service in Scotland, Belgium and Germany. He was attached to the evacuation hospitals as a surgeon and for a time supervised hospitals in countries that the American troops had overrun. To his mind the most interesting part of his work was the helping to ferret out SS troopers and other wanted Germans many of whom were hiding in the hospitals.

The latest additions to the group are the major and Lt. Richard Harmon of the air corps.

Major Radcliff, who was assistant judge advocate, attached to the Headquarters 3rd Corps, is the proud possessor of a commendation from Courtney H. Hodges, commanding general of the First U. S. Army.

The commendation was written May 9 and reads as follows:

"Major General James A. Van

ing under stress to accomplish the results which bring forth a commendation of this nature was a matter of the deepest satisfaction to him. He asked that members of the sections be advised of his personal appreciation.

It was Col. Godwin who wrote the personal letter to Maj. Radcliff: "It is with extreme personal pleasure that I transmit to you the above commendation of the corps commander and his remarks thereon. Your loyal devotion to duty and cheerful cooperation throughout the campaign against Germany contributed immeasurably to the success of this staff section in discharging its responsibilities to the corps commander."

Lt. Harmon, a gunner on a B-17 Flying Fortress received a battle field commission to second lieutenant while in England where he had gone following graduation from gunnery school at Laredo, Texas, in April, 1945.

He was attached to the 447 Bomb group with the 3rd division and is the possessor of the distinguished flying cross, the air medal with four oak leaf clusters and four battle stars. He was promoted to a first lieutenant in June.

Possibly no other section of Circleville can boast of more military personnel than this little half square. Three sons of T. W. White and James Boggs who are all in the service claim this section as their home also.

Major Radcliff's address is 133 West Mound; Lt. Harmon, lives at 160 West Mound; David Steinhauer, 149 West Mound; Lt. Lydia Given, 146 West Mound, and Capt. Monger, 154 West Mound.

Gobblers' Expense Doubles EAST LANSING, Mich. — Cost of producing turkeys in Michigan has more than doubled since 1939 it is reported by the Michigan Turkey Growers Assn.

"On this day of victory in Europe I want to congratulate you and the fighting 3rd Corps on the contribution you have made to the defeat of the German army. "From the time your corps joined the First Army on February 13 through its relentless drive to the Rhine, the brilliant bridgehead operation at Remagen and the reduction of the Ruhr pocket its record has been an outstanding one. The troops under your command have fought with courage and determination. Your leadership has been forceful and inspiring.

"I desire to commend you, your staff and the officers and men of the units who have served under you. Please let them know I am deeply appreciative of their accomplishments and accept my best personal wishes to you and to the 3rd Corps for continued success.

Courtney H. Hodges, Commanding General, U. S. Army."

Major General Van Fleet in transmitting the commendation to the colonel in charge, James E. Godwin, said the ability exhibited by Col. Godwin and his staff work-

YOUTH TURNED OVER TO FRANKLIN COUNTY COURT

Lawrence Morrison, 16, who admitted to Circleville police that he ransacked the home of Clinton Strawser, retired city fireman, York street Tuesday, was turned over to Franklin county authorities Friday.

Part of the loot which the youth stole has been recovered but Mr. Strawser said he was unable to tell just what all had been taken. A gift package containing 33 packs of cigarettes which Mr. Strawser had just received from some friends was taken and it is presumed the cigarettes were sold. A box containing money and quite a sum of small change was also missing.

The youth who had been a ward of the court had come to the house Tuesday afternoon while Mr. and Mrs. Strawser were at their farm home in Wayne township.

West Mound Street 'Platoon' Latest Local Military Organization

MAJOR RADCLIFF COMMANDS NEW ARMY DIVISION

Captain, Lieutenants And Nurse Other Members Of Military Order

Circleville's newest military organization is being formed on West Mound street between the first alley West of Court and Scioto street.

At present members are awaiting the return of at least one or two of the White boys and Capt. James Boggs to have enough for a platoon. Major William D. Radcliff, who with Mrs. Radcliff are living at the home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Gay L. Hitler, is in charge of the organization plans. He said Friday that early morning drill was being started just as soon as they could find a bugler to "get 'em up."

Lt. Lydia Given was one of the first to arrive in that particular section from overseas duty. Everyone will recall that she was the Circleville nurse who had an audience with the King and Queen of England.

David Steinhauser, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Steinhauser, who is really the veteran of the organization was discharged from service June 30 after serving five and one-half years. He saw service in many foreign countries and finished his fighting career in Germany. He had points to spare when he reached the separation center. When he left for the United States he was serving with the 69th Quartermasters company of the 69th division of the First Army.

A member of the medical corps, Captain William Monger, who with Mrs. Monger and small daughter is spending a furlough at the home of Mrs. Monger's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Lyle, makes the third member of the group. Capt. Monger, who served for six months overseas, saw service in Scotland, Belgium and Germany. He was attached to the evacuation hospitals as a surgeon and for a time supervised hospitals in countries that the American troops had overrun. To his mind the most interesting part of his work was the helping to ferret out SS troopers and other wanted Germans many of whom were hiding in the hospitals.

The latest additions to the group are the major and Lt. Richard Harmon of the air corps. Major Radcliff, who was assistant judge advocate, attached to the Headquarters 3rd corps, is the proud possessor of a commendation from Courtney H. Hodges, commanding general of the First U. S. Army.

The commendation was written May 9 and reads as follows: "Major General James A. Van

MAJOR William D. Radcliff is looking for a bugler to "wake up" Circleville's newest military organization, the returned veterans of West Mound street.

Fleet, commanding general, 3rd Corps.

"On this day of victory in Europe I want to congratulate you and the fighting 3rd Corps on the contribution you have made to the defeat of the German army.

"From the time your corps joined the First Army on February 13 through its relentless drive to the Rhine, the brilliant bridgehead operation at Remagen, and the reduction of the Ruhr pocket its record has been an outstanding one. The troops under your command have fought with courage and determination. Your leadership has been forceful and inspiring.

"I desire to commend you, your staff and the officers and men of the units who have served under you. Please let them know I am deeply appreciative of their accomplishments and accept my best personal wishes to you and to the 3rd Corps for continued success.

Courtney H. Hodges, Commanding General, U. S. Army."

Major General Van Fleet in transmitting the commendation to the colonel in charge, James E. Godwin, said the ability exhibited by Col. Godwin and his staff working under stress to accomplish the results which bring forth a commendation of this nature was a matter of the deepest satisfaction to him. He asked that members of the sections be advised of his personal appreciation.

It was Col. Godwin who wrote the personal letter to Maj. Radcliff: "It is with extreme personal pleasure that I transmit to you the above commendation of the corps commander and his remarks thereon. Your loyal devotion to duty and cheerful cooperation throughout the campaign against Germany contributed immeasurably to the success of this staff section in discharging its responsibilities to the corps commander."

Lt. Harmon, a gunner on a B-17 Flying Fortress received a battle field commission to second lieutenant while in England where he had gone following graduation from gunnery school at Laredo, Texas, in April, 1945.

He was attached to the 447 Bomb group with the 3rd division and is the possessor of the distinguished flying cross, the air medal with four oak leaf clusters and four battle stars. He was promoted to a first lieutenant in June.

Possibly no other section of Circleville can boast of more military personnel than this little half square. Three sons of T. W. White and James Boggs who are all in the service claim this section as their home also.

YOUTH TURNED OVER TO FRANKLIN COUNTY COURT

Lawrence Morrison, 16, who admitted to Circleville police that he ransacked the home of Clinton Strawser, retired city fireman, York street Tuesday, was turned over to Franklin county authorities Friday.

Part of the loot which the youth stole has been recovered but Mr. Strawser said he was unable to tell just what all had been taken. A gift package containing 33 packs of cigarettes which Mr. Strawser had just received from some friends was taken and it is presumed the cigarettes were sold. A box containing money and quite a sum of small change was also missing.

The youth who had been a ward of the court had come to the house Tuesday afternoon while Mr. and Mrs. Strawser were at their farm home in Wayne township.

HOMEcoming SOLDIER MAKES MONEY ON SHIP

NEW YORK, July 14 — When Sgt. William N. Lanning, 31, boarded his troopship at Le Havre he had just two cents and a Nazi blackjack in his pocket.

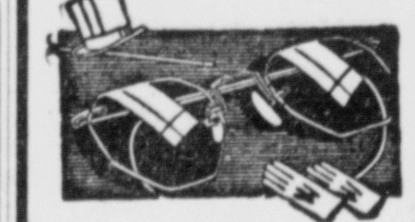

When Lanning debarked yesterday with 5,630 other servicemen he had $600.02 in his pocket. He sold the blackjack for $5 and ran it up to $600 in a dice game.

Is my face red!

"Is my face red! I used to think the other folks talked more on our party line than we did, but I timed myself one day and what do you think I averaged? Twelve minutes to a call! I suppose I've been bothering everybody on the line all the time and never knew it!"
